

Taylor Zhou is a Chinese American whose family has been in the U.S. since the early 1900s. She shares her passion for her heritage through her website MsZhou.us. Following her grandfather's footsteps, she helped establish the Manhattan Chinatown Business Improvement District that serves over 3,000 small businesses.

Taylor is a New York University graduate with degrees in Communication Studies and Finance, speaks Mandarin and Cantonese, and is a self-taught historian of Asian and Chinese American studies. She has a diverse range of experience in government, nonprofits, startups, and commercial real estate.

Story comment and development

- History of Chinese community (May is Asian American Heritage Month)
- Impact of covid-19 and recovery
- Business Improvement Districts
- Finance + FIRE/FIOR movement
- Diversity & Inclusion
- Asian women work and heritage

Press

- International Examiner
- The Village Sun
- World Journal
- Korea Daily

The Chinese Theater on Doyer St.
1905. Howard McClean, artist

1950s. Ethel Hing Gift Shop on Mosco St.

info@MsZhou.us

•

www.MsZhou.us